

Javon 14374

Javon is kind, charismatic, funny, and a lovely person to be around. He has a round face, soft eyes, and full lips. Currently, he not only works for the military, but is a student pursuing a degree in cyber security. We admire his ambition for his future, as he would like to one day be a chief data analyst. Javon has also traveled all over the world and even lived in Europe for some time. Some of his favorite places include Italy, Spain, Hungary, and Egypt. We enjoy hearing his adventurous stories from his travels.

Apart from his personal success, Javon is most proud of being a father of two and knows the importance of family and family creation. We value his knowledge, willingness, and interest to be in our program and recommend him to any family!
