

Broussard 18149 Staff Impression

Broussard has a quintessential Southern gentleman style with a flair for the dramatic. Standing at a statuesque 6 feet, he carries himself with a confidence that's as smooth as his perfectly coifed brown hair, which he parts just so to showcase his meticulous attention to detail. His sharp mustache, reminiscent of old-school charm, adds an air of sophistication, framing his rounded almond, brown eyes that give off a soulful warmth. Broussard's cleft chin gives him a distinctive profile as if he were carved from the very essence of Southern hospitality, while his thin oval lips often curl into a sly smile, hinting at the playful thoughts dancing behind them.

Broussard is not your average claims adjuster; he's a man of many layers. When he's not untangling the intricacies of insurance claims, you can find him soaring through the air on the volleyball court or gliding through the trees, disc in hand, embracing the thrill of the game. His playful spirit and competitive edge make him a formidable opponent, but it's all in good fun—after all, Broussard believes that every game is an opportunity to connect with friends and share some laughs. And speaking of laughs, his favorite animal is none other than the bear, a soft spot rooted in his love for The Jungle Book. He admires their gentle nature and fierce loyalty, not to mention their ability to lumber through life with a carefree attitude. Just like Baloo, Broussard knows that life is all about enjoying the simple pleasures, whether it's a day in the sun or a good game with friends.
