

Lotru stands at an even six feet tall, his Romanian roots giving him an effortlessly rugged charm. His frame is lean and powerfully built, all high muscle tone and strength, like someone who could lift a tree. He has a round head and short, dark brown hair that's always neat but never too polished, perfectly complemented by a full, long beard that matches in color and adds a bit of old-world mystique to his modern edge. His eyes are a warm, rich brown and a short, snub nose gives his face a friendly softness, balanced by medium full lips that curve easily into a wry grin. Altogether, Lotru has the kind of presence that's both solid and magnetic.

Lotru is the sharp-minded owner of a thriving locksmith business—he can crack a safe or rewire a security system. His hands are as clever as they are strong. Fluent in five languages (and conversational in sarcasm), Lotru moves through the world like it's his hometown. But don't let the calm business-owner vibe fool you. He's also a professional MMA fighter with the reflexes of a jungle cat and the discipline of a seasoned monk-warrior. His body is a roadmap of dedication, and when he steps into the ring, it's a beautiful, brutal ballet. When he's not fixing locks or flattening opponents, Lotru's idea of "relaxing" includes skydiving out of planes and trekking into the wild to go hunting. Whether he's free-falling through clouds or tracking game through a misty forest, he brings the same mix of focus, fearlessness, and feral joy.