

Dawes 16112 Staff Impression

Dawes stands at 5'6", his presence compact yet undeniably magnetic. His round face carries a sense of warmth, framed by short, spiked dark brown hair. A defined widow's peak gives his hairstyle a subtle touch of sophistication, perfectly complemented by a neatly groomed beard of the same rich hue. His brown almond-shaped eyes exude an inviting depth, hinting at both humor and intelligence. Centered on his face is a small, straight nose, adding balance and harmony to his features. Full cheeks lend him a friendly, unassuming look about him.

Dawes is a man of thoughtful ambition, balancing the challenges of finishing his PhD with the rewarding work of being a professor. His positive outlook shines through in everything he does, from mentoring his students to nurturing his garden. A dedicated and caring soul, he takes pride in cultivating vegetables and trees, finding peace in the quiet rhythm of growth. When he's not in the classroom or tending to his plants, Dawes loves spending time in the kitchen, creating meals alongside his wife that are as nourishing as they are delicious. A true jazz enthusiast, he finds joy in the expressive freedom of playing guitar, saxophone, bass, and drums, infusing each note with his passion and energy. Dawes is the kind of person whose presence leaves an imprint—steadfast, compassionate, and endlessly inspiring.
